Dear Ben,

Thank you for working on this project for your organization. Your idea about streamlining the work content for attorneys is not a novel idea, but a much-needed solution. Our attorneys work day and night, assisting as many clients as possible. And with domestic violence survivors, it is really hard to say no.

By replacing the client information gathering step by attorneys with an automatic form and replacing the manual filling of menial PDFs using automation saves attorneys a lot of time and effort. Attorneys will only have to review each document that a client presents them with in client meetings.

I am happy that you will stay as an intern with us for the coming year and continue to work on other menial forms to automate as well as continue debugging. You mentioned that the architecture to incorporate other new PDFs is in place and that it essentially requires copying and pasting.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Lieu
